Structure: PAS (Pain Agitate Solution)

SL: The algorithm hates you (jk, but read this)

Ever had one of those days?

You sit down. Coffee's hot. Energy's high.

You brainstorm ideas for 2 hours. Write what feels like the perfect script. Spend 7 hours editing, color grading, captions, that perfect hook.

You finally hit publish.

And wait.

…

40 views.

Let's be real, 38 were bots, and one was your mom.

Here's the part that stings:

Your videos might've gone viral last week.

But algorithms change. Fast.

What worked 7 days ago? Obsolete. What worked last month? Archaeology.

You can't win by guessing anymore. The platforms are shifting sand beneath your feet, and you're building castles with a plastic shovel.

So I did something about it.

I spent late nights in the n8n trenches. (If you know, you know.)

Broke things. Fixed things. Broke them again.

Until I built something I wish I had 6 months ago:

A workflow that:

• Spies on your competitors' top-performing posts (automatically)
• Compares them against your content (gap analysis)
• Generates a detailed report on exactly what you need to fix
Think of it as a personal GPS for going viral.

While everyone else is paddling blindly, hoping for a wave… you get a notification: "Next swell hitting in 3 hours. Position yourself here."

You surf. They sink.

Heres the sauce:

This is the exact automation I use to track what works.

Not theory. Not "best practices" from some 2022 blog post.

Live data. Real patterns. Competitive intelligence that normally costs $500/month in tools.

And I'm giving it away.

Why? Because I remember what 40 views feels like. And life's too short to create in silence.

Wanna use it?

The workflow is free. For now.

Before it gets patched. Before this email gets forwarded to 10,000 people and the loophole closes.

Click here to grab it [LINK]

Don't let the algorithm win.

 [Name]

P.S.- If you're thinking "I'll come back to this later", you won't. And tomorrow, your competitor who clicked this link will know exactly what content to make while you're still guessing. Your move.